Morgan James has revolutionized book publishing from the author's standpoint. Their Entrepreneurial Publishing™ model enriches authors as well as the company.

Actively working with authors to help them not only maximize revenue from their book royalties, but also build new business and increase their revenue substantially through follow-on sales to their readers.

One of Morgan James's core values is having strong and mutually beneficial relationships. "We've spent years developing many of the key business relationships that allows us to get our books in bookstores and the widespread Web coverage we've been able to achieve. We intend to stay constant in our pursuit of positive relationships with people in all facets of our business, and we see that as a strategic advantage", says David L. Hancock, Morgan James's Founder.

If you've been looking to publish your book and you have gotten fed up with all the alternatives, then we would like to talk. The venture of publishing is not without risk – Morgan James receives an average of 4,500 manuscript proposals each year, but only publishes an average of 160. But the rewards can be substantial. It's time to Raise Your Expectations!

LEARNING AND TEACHING OPPORTUNITIES

Adult Learning Centers

Adult learning centers around the country offer free magazines that list the seminars they sponsor. You don't have to publish a book to teach at them, and they need copy about classes for their catalogs. The following list is a starting point for your inquiries: Boston Center of Adult Education, Colorado Free University-Denver and Colorado Springs, Discover U-Seattle, Discovery Center-Chicago, First Class Seminars-Washington, D.C., Knowledge Shoppe-Orlando, Learning Annex-Los Angeles, New York, Sacramento, San Diego, San Francisco, Toronto, Learning Connection-Providence, Learning Exchange-Hartford, Leisure Learning Unlimited-Houston, Open Exchange-Kensington, CA, Open University-Minneapolis, University extensions sponsor one-day to semester-long classes. Adult learning centers and university extensions

BUSINESS MAGAZINES & RESOURCES

Entrepreneur Magazine

Entrepreneur.com offers a wealth of articles on your small-business needs. Sections on money, management and home office-users may be of particular interest to advisors and agents. The site has information on starting and maintaining a Web presence and reviews of the gadgets you need to make your office run more smoothly. <http://www.entrepreneur.com>

The Entrepreneurs' Help Page

This site was "created, and published by a group of young professionals," according to its "About Us" page and is designed to distribute basic information on legal, financial and management issues that effect small-business owners. In addition to its own content, the site features articles from around the Web and interviews with other small-business owners. <http://www.tannedfeet.com>

Inc.com

Much more than a magazine, Inc.com provides small-business owners with free tools for everything from starting a business to marketing to writing contracts. It also provides advice columns and an updated list of events the magazine holds for entrepreneurs. Perhaps the most valuable aspect of the site is the "guides" section, which compiles the very best articles and tools from the magazine on topics like customer service and human resources.

<http://www.inc.com>

SmallBizManager.com

This site is chock full of reviews and recommendations of business services and products. The site reviews software, hardware, banking, cell phones and much more. It also has a "portal" function that lists websites for trade shows, magazines and all your technology needs.

<http://www.smallbizmanager.com>

Small Business Computing

Dedicated wholly to the computer needs of small businesses this site provides breaking technology news from Internetnews.com and practical reviews on hardware and software. It also has sections on business tools and e-marketing. There's even a section dedicated to your Webmaster!

<http://www.smallbusinesscomputing.com>

ZDNet Product Reviews

One of the top tech sites on the 'Net, ZDNet provides succinct, comprehensive and trustworthy reviews on software and hardware. The "Editor's Top Fives" lists provide a handy shortcut and side-by-side comparison of most major small-business needs.

Additional resources from Guerrilla Marketing for Writers co-author, Michael Larsen

One reason why now is the best time ever to be a writer is the astonishing amount of help available online. Only the Web could hope to corral and update all of the resources for all writers online and off, an entrepreneurial opportunity waiting to be seized.

The following inevitably selective, outdated, tip-of-the-iceberg compilation of mostly blogs and websites will point you in the right direction as will Google. Sites often have About or FAQ links. They may offer blogs and newsletters. Some sites are listed twice. Wikipedia has an introduction to whatever you want to know about.

The following sources were most helpful in compiling this information:

- David Marshall and Bonnie Kaufman at Berrett-Koehler Publishers
- The Author's Guide to Building an Online Platform by Stephanie Chandlerand
- Plug Your Book! Online Book Marketing for Authors by Steve Weber
- Red Hot Internet Publicity by Penny C. Sansevieri
- The Self-Publishing Manual Volume II by Dan Poynter.

You can add to them instantly by Googling any heading.

Ask your communities about products and services before committing a significant amount time or money to them. Learn from what successful authors in your field are doing. Pick the heading you're most interested in and start exploring. Happy tapping!
